Major Accomplishments (narrative to be used in written history))

At the regional meetings a futuring discussion was held. NEAFCS leaders indicated their number one priority was marketing or ‘image enhancement.’ We moved forward from this beginning to put a line item in the budget for image enhancement and this resulted in the Living Well campaign.

The president and president-elect were invited to attend the National Program leaders meeting in Washington DC and give a presentation about NEAFCS. They gave us an hour on the program and were very warm and welcoming. As a result they decided to have their next national meeting with our annual session. That had been done in the past but it had been a number of years since so we were glad to have this tradition re-instated at the annual session in Greensboro.

I was asked to speak at the AAFCS Extension Section luncheon. I spoke about the beginning of our ‘image enhancement’ campaign.

A new line item in the budget had been added for state visits by national officers. We had three members make visits.

I participated in the National Leadership calls with USDA. These were convened by Dr. Anna Mae Kobbe and made up of a state program leader from each area. It was another good way for us to connect with administration.
